1. List the members of your group below. Underline your name.

2. Briefly describe the purpose of the example you are exhibiting. What do you expect the reader to learn from it?

3. Critique of the example, by:
   In addition to a general critique, indicate how well the example meets the criteria discussed in previous classes, and how well it serves the purpose noted above. Provide at least three concrete suggestions for significant improvement.
4. Outline changes for an improved example, with brief explanatory notes as needed.

5. Outline three other (significantly different) examples relevant to your project. Describe the purpose of each example.